

XM Instant Traffic and Weather is an invaluable service for travellers in major cities. I just used my new XM radio to get continuous traffic updates in Dallas and found that there was no comparison with the local radio stations. XM allows one to listen when one needs to rather than when the broadcast station decides to. Granting NAB's petition to prevent this service would be contrary to the public interest and counter-competitive. Our capitalistic marketplace should determine what services are provided. The FCC exists to protect the public interest not individual private companies profit margins.
Thank you.

Anthony L. Talbert, M.D.
Professor
Dept. of Pediatrics
Texas Tech University School of Medicine